

My Time Machine

Did you know you can send yourself into the future?

If you write down what your life is like now, when you grow up you will remember what you know now and your children and grandchildren will be able to learn what your life was like when you were their age.

My Future

What the world will be like when I grow up.

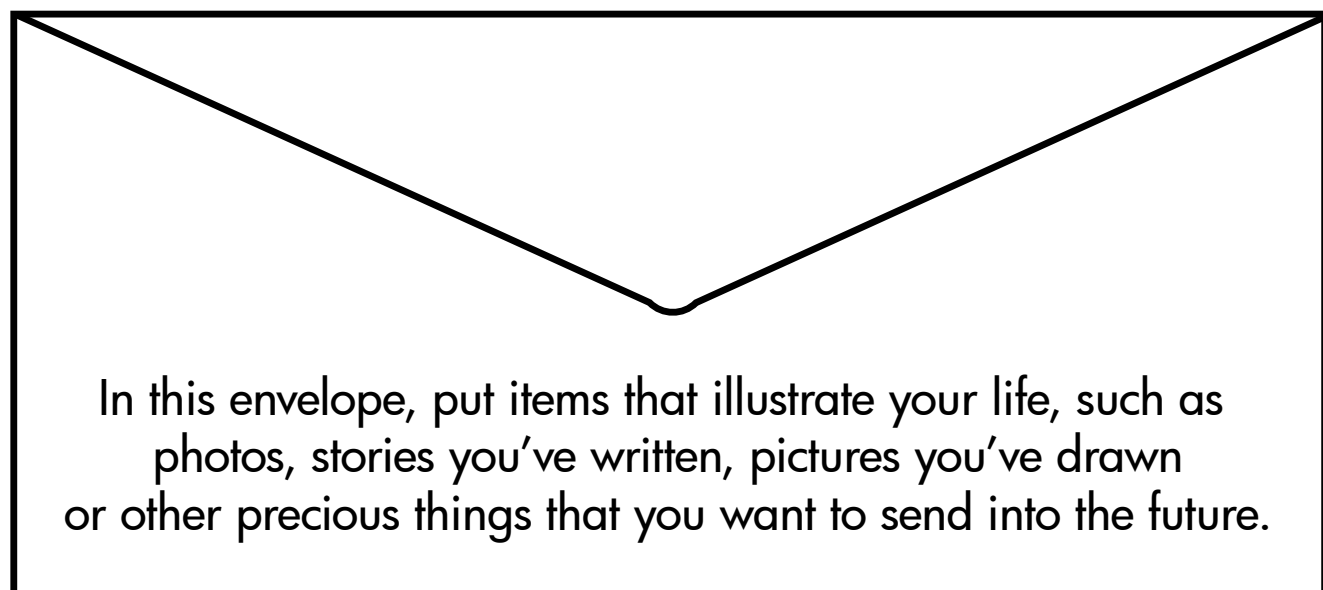

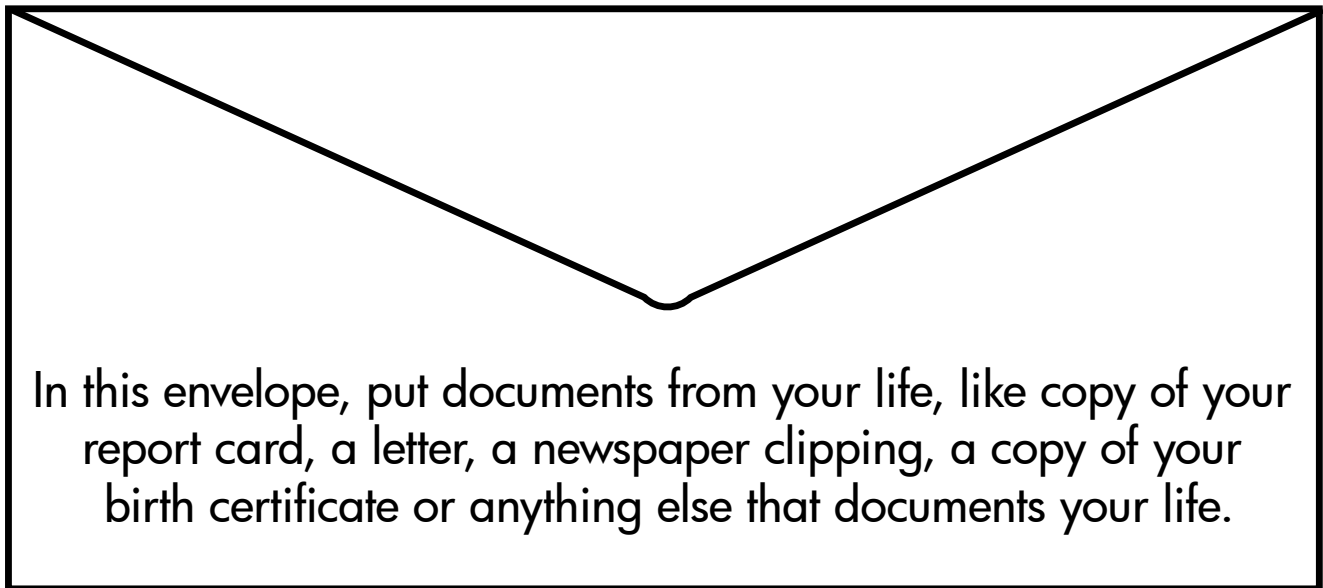

What my family will be like when I grow up.

My dreams and goals.

Oh Yeah? Prove It.

Documents are used to prove what happened in the past. What documents have come from your life that will prove to someone in the future that you were alive?

Paste two envelopes here:

My Grandma's Time Machine

Now you get to travel to the past,
to meet your Grandmas and Grandpas.

By learning about them and understanding what their life was like, you learn and understand more about yourself, and your family now.

See if you can find out what their report cards were like, what kind of trouble they got into, what their birthdays were like,
and what their thoughts and dreams were for the future.

Let's get going...

All Of My Family

Families are made up of many people.
There are Moms and Dads, Brothers and Sisters, Step Parents,
Step Brothers and Sisters, Grandmas and Grandpas,
Aunts and Uncles, and many, many Cousins.
Draw a picture including every living family member you know.

Where am I from?

-  Put a teal star where your Father was born,
-  Put an orange star where your Mother was born,
-  Put a blue star where your Father's Father was born,
-  Put a red star where your Father's Mother was born,
-  Put a green star where your Mother's Father was born.
-  Put a yellow star where your Mother's Mother was born.

Choose another color for the birthplaces of other grandparents you know. Color them in on the pedigree on the pages before and list them here:

Time Machine Activities

Catapult Yourself Into The Future.

Making a scrapbook, a collage of pictures, or a drawing of your family is a great way to send yourself into the future. Be sure to be careful of your original photos and only use copies for art projects.

Or,

Make a paper doll family,

Fold a piece of paper back and forth like a fan.

Cut out a person shape making sure the arms touch the folded sides.

Decorate and name the each paper doll after a family member and find a good place to display your creation.

Or,

Put yourself in stone.

1. Collect some special rocks and obtain a package of cement from your local hardware store.
2. Dig a shallow hole the size of a stepping stone or use a mold.
3. Following the directions on the cement package, mix the cement and fill the mold or shallow hole.
4. Using a small stick, write your name in the cement, add stones and make a handprint.
5. Let the cement set and you have a permanent momento.
